THE VALUE OF “FUNCTIONAL FOODS” ...

March, 14th 2018
Jens Bleiel
CEO FHI

“Food is always functional because if we don’t eat, we are dead.”

It is about Health and Well-being: the overall food intake and the food matrix - plus life style

“Subgroups of the healthy population” may require specific nutrition

It requires excellent science, research, human intervention studies to really understand how food generates health and well-being in different populations and in different parts of the world
